

CITY OF EAST POINT ALERT:

A BOIL WATER ADVISORY

As part of the repair process, water quality testing must be completed to verify that the integrity of the water distribution system has been fully restored before the advisory can be lifted. In accordance with Georgia Environmental Protection Division (EPD) requirements, the advisory will remain in effect until:

All microbiological tests, performed by a certified laboratory, are confirmed negative for total coliform bacteria.

Water quality samples demonstrate a minimum chlorine residual of 0.2 mg/L throughout the distribution system.

Laboratory results have been submitted to and reviewed by the Georgia EPD. Residents may also experience temporary low water pressure as the water distribution system recovers over the next few hours.

In addition, Headland Drive sustained significant damage as a result of the water main break, including the formation of a sinkhole that has made the roadway unsafe. For the safety of the public, Headland Drive will remain closed between Plantation Drive and Bryant Drive until road restoration work is complete.

We appreciate your patience and understanding as our crews continue working to safely restore the area. Updates will be provided as additional information becomes available.
